Dear Mr. Desi:

All of us at the Postal Service have a sense of humor, but there is nothing funny about your game "Postal." It is in very poor taste, and is an erroneous and unfair portrayal of the nation's postal employees.

As you may know, the Centers for Disease Control recently reported that the risk of death for our employees is 2.5 times less than that of all workers nationwide.

The stereotype of a violent postal employee, perpetuated through software such as yours, does a grave disservice to the more than 750,000 men and women who work hard every day to deliver excellence to their fellow citizens. To understand what "going Postal" really means, you might want to read the attached article.

I believe you owe the men and women of the Postal Service an apology, and hope you will have enough common sense to discontinue the "Postal" game.

Best regards,

Marvin Runyon

POSTAL
In the spring of 2002, a legendary toy franchise was born, and thousands set sail for the-online-auction-house-whose-name-we-can't-use-for-fear-of-getting-sued. They came in search of the American Dream.
One of them found it on the sun-washed avenues of Paradise, AZ... wealth, bird flu and horny lab monkeys beyond his wildest dreams.
He was a talking ballsack. The world would remember him by another name ...KROTCHY.
He Teabagged the American Dream. With a vengeance.
